

You are Invited to the Dayton AAP Fall Salon

Miami Valley Hospital
Maxon Parlor (Floor "G")
128 E. Apple Street
Dayton, Ohio

Saturday, October 17, 2009
3:00 to 4:30pm

Note: Enter at the Wright State University – School of Medicine entrance on Apple Street. Take elevator UP one level to Floor G. Follow signs to Maxon Parlor. Parking available in the LOT directly across Apple Street from the entrance and the adjacent parking garage.

The topic for the Salon mirrors this year's theme for the AAP Institute & Conference which is Compassion, Connection, and Authentic Presence in Psychotherapy being held November 11-15, 2009 in Sarasota, Florida. Similar gatherings on this topic are being held in cities across the country. Information about the AAP Institute & Conference will be available.

We offer a welcoming space for counselors, social workers, psychiatrists, psychologists, and graduate students to gather for wonderful conversation, collegial support, networking, and light refreshments.

There is no charge to attend the salon.

AAP Salons offer rich opportunities for professionals to come together in the unique 'AAP atmosphere' for discussion that is stimulating and often provocative. With mind and heart we distinctively integrate our personal and professional experience in a group process.

The presenter for this Salon is Kathryn Van der Heiden, MS, PCC. Kathryn has been a psychotherapist in private practice in the Dayton area for 30 years and is Past-President of the American Academy of Psychotherapists.

Please RSVP Steven Ingram, D.Min. Tom McElfresh, Psy.D.
