AMERICAN ACADEMY OF PSYCHOTHERAPISTS SOUTHERN REGION ANNUAL CONFERENCE

April 15-17, 2011
Brasstown Valley Resort
Young Harris, Georgia

The Role of Emotion in Psychotherapy

Welcome to the 2011 AAP Southern Region annual Spring Conference. The theme for this conference was inspired by the belief in the need to firmly establish the importance of feelings and emotions in the psychotherapeutic process. Emotions in their awareness, acknowledgement, validation and expression are integral. Emotions are at the very core of psychotherapy as all psychotherapeutic interventions deal in one way or another with alleviating emotional pain and psychological distress. However, because of recent trends in academic psychology and research based training programs, emotional processes and the need for expressive/experiential affective interventions have been undervalued or eschewed as important clinical skills. Hence the need to reinforce the value of the role of emotions in psychotherapy and this Conference theme.

The AAP Southern Region Committee is very pleased with the roster of workshops. We hope that this theme and the roster are useful for both the new and seasoned psychotherapist. We intend to provide experiences at the Conference that support the therapist in their knowledge and growth. We also intend to affirm the "Experiential Psychotherapist." This is in keeping with the main mission of our parent organization which we are proud to be part of: The American Academy of Psychotherapists.

The American Academy of Psychotherapists: Our Mission

The American Academy of Psychotherapists was founded in 1954 by a group of pioneering psychotherapists who sought a meeting ground for practitioners from different disciplines where live experience and demonstrations of psychotherapy would help to create open discourse. Carl Rogers, Albert Ellis, and Fritz Perls were all members of AAP, as were, through the years, other well-known members of our profession such as Virginia Satir, Carl Whitaker, Henry Guze, Rollo May, Irving and Miriam Polster, Bob and Mary Goulding, Jim Bugental, Sheldon Kopp, Dick Felder, Tom Malone, and John Warkentin.

Since 1895, when Freud first realized that the analyst's emotional process played a role in analysis, our profession has needed to find ways to focus on the person of the psychotherapist; that is the mission of the Academy. Our aims are:

- To provide a meeting ground for trained and experienced psychotherapists of differing orientations.
- To facilitate cross-discipline thinking, planning and research in psychotherapy.
- To encourage high standards of training experience and ethical practice in psychotherapy.

Target Audience

This program is appropriate for psychologists, professional counselors, marriage and family therapists, social workers and other professionals interested in experiential, expressive, depth process and humanistically oriented psychotherapies.

Conference Objectives

- Discuss the importance of the role of emotion in psychotherapy.
- Explain the need for psychotherapists to become proficient in working with the full range of emotions of their clients
- Demonstrate psychotherapeutic methods that focus on emotion in psychotherapy
- Differentiate between working with emotions in the here and now and with past emotions
- Distinguish between therapeutic and non-therapeutic expression of emotion

With a covey of original songs featured on their first release, Borrowed Time (2006), and another CD in the works, The Cazanovas are working hard to make an impression on how modern blues is viewed in today's music world.

The vibe, energy and originality that is brought to the table by this group of musicians to create "music that is rooted in blues, but doesn't necessarily sound like a copy of something that we've heard before" (Chris Kramer ABS Writer 2006) is what keeps the band fresh and innovative.

C . Kirven Weekley, Ph.D., Susan McClure, Psy.D.

(3 CE's, Limit 8. Instructional Level: Introductory, Intermediate and Advanced)

In accordance with AAP's mission "to enhance the person of the psychotherapist," this training group is based on the assumption that the emotions of a psychotherapist are elemental and indispensable to who they are as a person, and as a psychotherapist. We invite group members to deepen their own emotional processes through acknowledgement, expression, exploration, validation, experimentation, challenge, connection.... This group offers an opportunity for members to feel more fully into who they are and allow feelings to inform their relationships with others.

C. Kirven Weekley, Ph.D. has been working as a clinical psychologist for 25 years and maintains a private practice in Atlanta and Covington, GA. He works primarily with adults, couples and families and uses a unique mix of psychodynamic, systemic, humanistic, experiential, neurocognitive and existential techniques. ALL-DAY WORKSHOPS:
9:00 - 12:15 and 2:45 - 6:00

Fine Tuning Emotional Expression in Group Psychotherapy

Lorrie Hallman, Ph.D.

(6 CE's; Limit 15, . Instructional Level: Introductory, Intermediate and Advanced)

The expression of emotion in therapy groups has been both under- and over-valued in the history of psychotherapy. We will focus on the useful and productive forms emotional expression can take in a process group, both for the member having the feelings and for the group as a whole. A fine balance of emotion and cognition will be demonstrated as having the best probability of fostering lasting change.

Lorrie Hallman, Ph.D., has been a licensed clinical psychologist in private practice for over 35 years in Atlanta, GA. She works with individuals, couples and groups, with a particular interest in the emotional life and its impact on behavior. With a BA in English from Emory, a Master's and PhD in Psychology from Georgia State, she has practiced her own blend of psychodynamic and experiential psychotherapy. She is currently focused on how early emotional experiences drive the development of defensive, repetitive, negative inner dialogues.

Practicing Courageous Psychotherapy Under Personal Distress.

Gary C. Frankel, Ph.D.

(6 CE's, Limit 15, Instructional Level: Introductory, Intermediate and Advanced)

Transference and counter-transference represent the core of the psychotherapeutic process. Psychotherapists, through self-reflection, attempt to mitigate the intrusion of their own vulnerabilities into the consultative hour. An all day group will attempt to promote non-judgmental reflection, with emphasis on identification and management of personal distress for the therapist.

Gary C. Frankel, Ph.D. received a BS degree in Psychology from The University of Illinois in 1975. His Masters and Doctoral degrees were attained in 1977 and 1980 respectively from The University of Southern Mississippi.

Dr. Frankel Interned and completed a Post-Doctoral Residence at St. Elizabeths Hospital. His Post-Doctoral Residence was in Clinical Administration with an emphasis on systems. Thereafter, he functioned as a Clinical Administrator utilizing his training in systems theory and group process to run two admission wards at St. Elizabeths Hospital. For the next 30 years, Dr. Frankel has been in full time private practice, and is Licensed in DC. During a typical week, Dr. Frankel runs 9 psychotherapy groups (8 with co-therapists), and one Countertransference Supervision Group. In addition, Dr. Frankel conducts approximately 20 hours of Individual and Couples Psychotherapy weekly. For over 15 years, Dr. Frankel was involved with AAP's Ethics Committee as a representative for EC, a member, and as Chairperson.

SATURDAY MORNING WORKSHOPS:

Pesso-Boyden System Psychomotor therapy (PBSP): Emotional re-education rooted in the body

Gus Kaufman, Jr., Ph.D.

(3 CE's, Limit 40, Instructional Level: Introductory, Intermediate and Advanced)

Emotions are impulses toward action, genetically engineered toward getting our basic needs met. When our feelings are not expressed and met, they can become symptoms, ranging from tension to chronic pain. In this workshop we will explore using these signals for healing, offering precise symbolic re-mapping that changes the person's internal object relations. (Theoretical & experiential) Included:

- Five genetically programmed responses to threat and how they can be used in healing
- The profoundly interactive nature of emotions used to help people get unstuck
- The healing map

Gus Kaufman, Jr., Ph.D., licensed psychologist (GA), senior PBSP trainer, has taught therapists around the U.S., Europe and Israel. Gus sees individuals, couples and families, leads groups and supervises therapists. His areas of expertise include abuse, trauma, the use of body signals in psychotherapy and sexual orientation. A lover of nature and people, Gus has co-founded five non-profit organizations and published extensively.

Intimacy, Passion, Connection

Stephen Howard, MD

(3 CE's, Limit 30, Instructional Level: Intermediate and Advanced)

We often think of love as a feeling, something that “happens” to us. We are particularly confused when it comes to mating, confounding romance, erotic passion, and the intimate love that sustains connected partnerships. Why does the passion of romance always fade, and what happens then? How does the end of even the briefest relationship sometimes lead to deep despair? What is intimacy, and how do we sustain it? Through myth, story and discussion, we will try to understand the decisions that create intimate and lasting connection.

Stephen Howard, M.D. is an experiential psychotherapist, family therapist, and psychiatrist with more than 40 years of practice. His studies in philosophy, history and religion lend depth and richness to his training endeavors. He is the author of The Heart and Soul of the Therapist: Rage, Fear, Desire, Loss and Love in the Psychotherapy Relationship (University Press, 2008). He is an Executive Councilor in the American Academy of Psychotherapists.

Gestalt and Applied Psychomotor: Emotion Focused Therapies

Pauline Rose Clance, Ph.D., ABPP

Joel Rachelson, Ph.D.

(3 CE's, Limit 20, Instructional Level: Introductory, Intermediate and Advanced)

Pauline and Joel will demonstrate Gestalt Therapy and Applied Psychomotor and then discuss each methods capacity to emphasize and work with emotions. Gestalt therapy is a here and now awareness focused therapy that is highly effective in helping people resolve unresolved emotional conflicts. Psychomotor is one of the best therapies for healing childhood wounds and Applied Psychomotor is a more body based and directive form of Psychomotor. We will also process the emotions that emerged in the work.

Pauline Rose Clance, Ph.D., ABPP a board certified Atlanta psychologist who has been in practice for over 30 years and I remain very impressed with the ability of clients to be able to alter their lives in a positive direction. I have seen many clients benefit from the process of psychotherapy.

Joel Rachelson, Ph.D. has been using TA, Gestalt, Psychomotor and other methods in individual and group settings for over 20 years. He has written articles on The Psychology of Self Parenting and is beginning some writing on Roadmap Therapy. He has led numerous workshops for psychotherapists nationally and internationally. Joel was certified as a Psychomotor Therapist in 1994, and has also completed the three-year Psychomotor Trainer training.

Two-Stepping With Our Clients: Co-Creating the Therapeutic Relationship

Linda F. Weiskoff, LCSW, BCD

(3 CE's, No Limit, Instructional Level: Introductory, Intermediate and Advanced)

This workshop will explore the therapeutic relationship and its impact on the client and the therapist. Participants will look at the different attachment styles and the access people have to their feelings at the beginning of therapy. We'll look at transference and countertransference and boundaries. We'll discuss the breeches in attachment caused by therapist error and the feelings that our mistakes evoke in our clients and ourselves. Participants will also have the opportunity to observe their process as they co-create a working relationship. This workshop will include experiential, discussion and didactic components.

Linda Weiskoff, LCSW, BCD has been a clinical social worker, practicing in Georgia since 1982. She graduated from the University of Georgia School of Social Work. In 2000-01, she participated in an intensive training on Attachment Theory and working with people with Attachment Disorder. In 2003, she opened the Heartwork Counseling Center as a training center for new therapists. In addition to her clinical work, Linda offers workshops and trainings to the therapeutic community and the general population.

SATURDAY AFTERNOON GROUPS: 2:45 - 6:00

Using Interventions to Open or to Contain Emotion: How to Decide

Suzanne Imes, Ph.D.

(3 CE's, Limit 16, Instructional Level: Intermediate and Advanced)

Sometimes it is therapeutic to use who we are and what we know to help clients access and express emotion; sometimes it's not. We will explore the process of making decisions about what to do when and how to do it through experiential work with participants and subsequent discussion and pair exercises. I will include didactic material from case examples, Gestalt principles, body-oriented observations, and some wisdom from the Enneagram.

Suzanne Imes, Ph.D., licensed psychologist, has been in the private practice of psychotherapy in Atlanta, Georgia for 30 years, specializing in body-oriented Gestalt therapy with individuals, couples, and groups. She has provided training and supervision for numerous clinical psychology graduate students as well as for seasoned therapists. She has led numerous workshops designed to help participants access and release troublesome emotions and then integrate the experiential learnings into more conscious, aware, and vibrant present living. She is co-developer of the Impostor Phenomenon theory and co-editor of Touch in psychotherapy: Theory, research, and practice (Guilford, 1997).

The Ethical Group Therapist

Diana Woodruff, Ph.D.

(3 CE's, No Limit, Instructional Level: Intermediate and Advanced)

As a practicing group psychotherapist we encounter issues in our everyday practice that may rise to the level of ethical dilemmas. As Psychotherapists we have to focus on our own self-awareness around issues pertaining to diversity such as age, gender, gender identity, race and other human factors that influence our decision making process. In our workshop we will explore our own behavior as it relates to leading groups and the impact that we have as we work at leading effective psychotherapy groups.

Diana Woodruff, Ph.D. has worked with David Hawkins, MD for the past nine years by attending his Group Training Sessions. She is in private practice and is one of the four partners who created the "Pathway Center for Psychotherapy" that is located in Norcross, GA. where she is also the Director of Training. Her primary focus is family therapy which she believes is the strongest modality for developing insight and to initiate changes in the individual's relationships. She and her husband adopted four children which (over time) has produced nine grandchildren. She spent the first thirty years of her career working in the public school system in special education and later coordinating a center for the severely emotionally disturbed adolescents. The therapeutic power of families as well as working with groups impacted her so that her major focus in her private practice has been to continue this work – family therapy.

The Role of Emotions in Supervision

Robert P. Roney, D.Min.

(3 CE's, No limit, Instructional Level: Intermediate and Advanced)

Those doing supervision and those interested in becoming supervisors are welcome in this workshop. Moving beyond cognitive information to the deeper emotional process, we will encounter the multi-layered transference/countertransference phenomena in supervision.

Robert P. Roney, D.Min. holds a certificate in the State of Georgia as a supervisor for professional counselors. Dr. Roney has completed an approved post-doctoral training program for supervisors in marriage and family therapy and pastoral counseling at Louisville Presbyterian Seminary. Bob is on the faculty at the training institute of Pathway Center for Psychotherapy. He has a doctorate in pastoral counseling from Louisville Presbyterian Seminary and a master's in theology from Princeton. Bob divides his time between clinical supervision and psychotherapy.

SUNDAY MORNING GROUPS:

9:00 – 10:30

Randomly Assigned Process Groups

The last workshop of the conference will offer participants a final opportunity to be in caring contact with other attendees in a leaderless group. Group members will be invited to encounter one another, to share experiences from the conference, to sample and explore technique and process. See the Conference Bulletin Board for group assignments. (No CE credit)

CLOSING EXPERIENCE:

10:45 – 12:00

We will come together as a community one last time to have to time for more comfort, closure and any final sharings.
